

RUSSIA TREMBLES
IN TERROR AT THE RISE OF TREPOFF

Elevation of Governor-General of St. Petersburg to Assistant Minister of the Interior Taken to Mean Reactionary Policy.

PROMISE OF ASSEMBLY
HOLDS PEOPLE IN CHECK.

Manifesto Convening Two National Houses May Be Issued Tomorrow or Next Day—People Are Awaiting Developments.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—The defeat of Rojstvensky, the prospects of peace, the activities in Manchuria are ignored topics here.

All interest centers in the elevation of Governor-General Trepoft to the office of Assistant Minister of the Interior, a position which makes him virtual dictator, and gives him the power of imprisonment without accusation and of banishment without trial.

That the rioting, disorder and possibly open rebellion which were to be expected following the announcement of Trepoft's elevation, meaning as it does a policy of repression and tyranny, have not been in evidence, is due to the fact that there is a silver lining of the dark cloud of the appointment.

According to semi-official statements an imperial manifesto will be issued tomorrow, the Empress' birthday, or on Thursday, the festival of the Ascension, and will immediately realize the popular demand for a parliamentary regime by creating a legislative assembly, consisting of two houses. The Lower House will be called the Gosudarstvennaya Duma, "Imperial Duma," and the Upper House, Gosudarstvennaya Sovet, or the present Council of the Empire. While the Upper House will enjoy the preponderance and power of the Lower House will also have legislative functions. The Emperor will retain complete control of the Legislative Assembly, with the right of veto and power to dissolve assemblies and order the new elections.

The assembly will be presided over by a member of the Emperor's chosen. Members of the assembly will be elected for three years. Ministers and chiefs of bureaus will be members ex-officio of the legislative assembly.

Should the above information prove accurate, as there is every reason to believe it is, the prediction of the Liberals at the opening of the war that the Emperor of Japan would give a constitution to Russia, appears about to be realized.

The press seems dazed. Most of the papers are unable to fully understand what it means, and refrain altogether from comment, but those which speak do so in a strain of the gloomiest forebodings, seeing in the appointment that the Russian people have again bowed down under the galling yoke of the police.

DEATH OF THE CZAR
RUMORED AT BERLIN

Report on the Bourse Is That Emperor Has Been Assassinated—No Confirmation Obtained.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—The rumor circulated on the Berlin Bourse of the assassination of Emperor Nicholas is groundless.

BERLIN, June 6.—A report for which no confirmation could be received, but which, coming in connection with the marriage of the Crown Prince, created great excitement for a short time on the Bourse today, was that the czar had been assassinated. The word was supposed to have been received in a private telegram to Mendelssohn Bros., bankers for the Russian Government. Members of the firm deny having received the message.

SWANGER LETTER
USED BY LEWIS
AS ADVERTISEMENT

President of People's United States Bank Follows Letter With Statement Concerning Institution's Reliability.

OLD DEMANDS WILL BE MADE IN NEW LETTER.

This Letter, Bearing the Official Seal of the Secretary of State, Is Being Brought by Mr. Swanger From Jefferson City.

Edward G. Lewis, President of the People's United States Bank, has used the letter of Secretary of State Swanger, dated June 2, as an advertisement. The letter was written after the selection of James F. Coyle and Theodore F. Meyer as members of the Board of Directors in place of two employees of Lewis' magazine. Lewis prints the letter in full, following it with an announcement to the public signed by himself.

In this advertisement Lewis implies that the investigation is concluded as he refers to "the statement finally made by the Secretary of State." In the meantime, the original demands made by Mr. Swanger are to be presented to Lewis again, this time in a formal letter bearing the signature of Secretary of State Swanger and his official seal.

The letter dated June 2 and signed by Secretary Swanger is as follows: St. Louis, June 2, 1905. To the Board of Directors of the People's United States Bank: Gentlemen—The steps you have taken in the reorganization of the directory of the People's United States Bank by the election of Mr. Theodore F. Meyer and Mr. James F. Coyle as members of the board give me assurance that the directory of this bank will be composed of men who will be a guarantee for the safe conduct of its business, and are satisfactory to this department. Your agreement to conform to all of the requirements of the department justifies me in withdrawing any objection to the bank's operation at this time, and I am glad to state that the bank is now in operation for the conduct of all its business and that I have full confidence that the suggestions of the department will be fully complied with.

JOHN E. SWANGER, Secretary of State. Following this use of the above letter in full as an advertisement, Lewis makes a statement, saying among other things: "The extraordinary scrutiny to which all of our affairs have been subjected has resulted in demonstrating the absolute soundness of our assets, and the statement finally made by the Secretary of State is the best evidence that our management intends, not merely to comply with the law, but to go far beyond that requirement in creating something like public consternation."

A telegram from Jefferson City to the Post-Dispatch Tuesday stated that Secretary Swanger had completed another letter to Lewis but would not make public its contents. It was also said that Secretary Swanger and Bank Examiner Cook would leave Jefferson City Tuesday afternoon for St. Louis to present the letter in person to Lewis.

This letter, it is understood, makes the same demands as were made in the new famous letter of the Secretary of State on May 1, which fact Lewis contended that it was not official and its demands could only be treated as suggestions. The letter which Secretary Swanger brings to St. Louis Tuesday night is under the official seal of the Secretary of State and is understood to be couched in such terms that there can be no misunderstanding as to what the State intends upon.

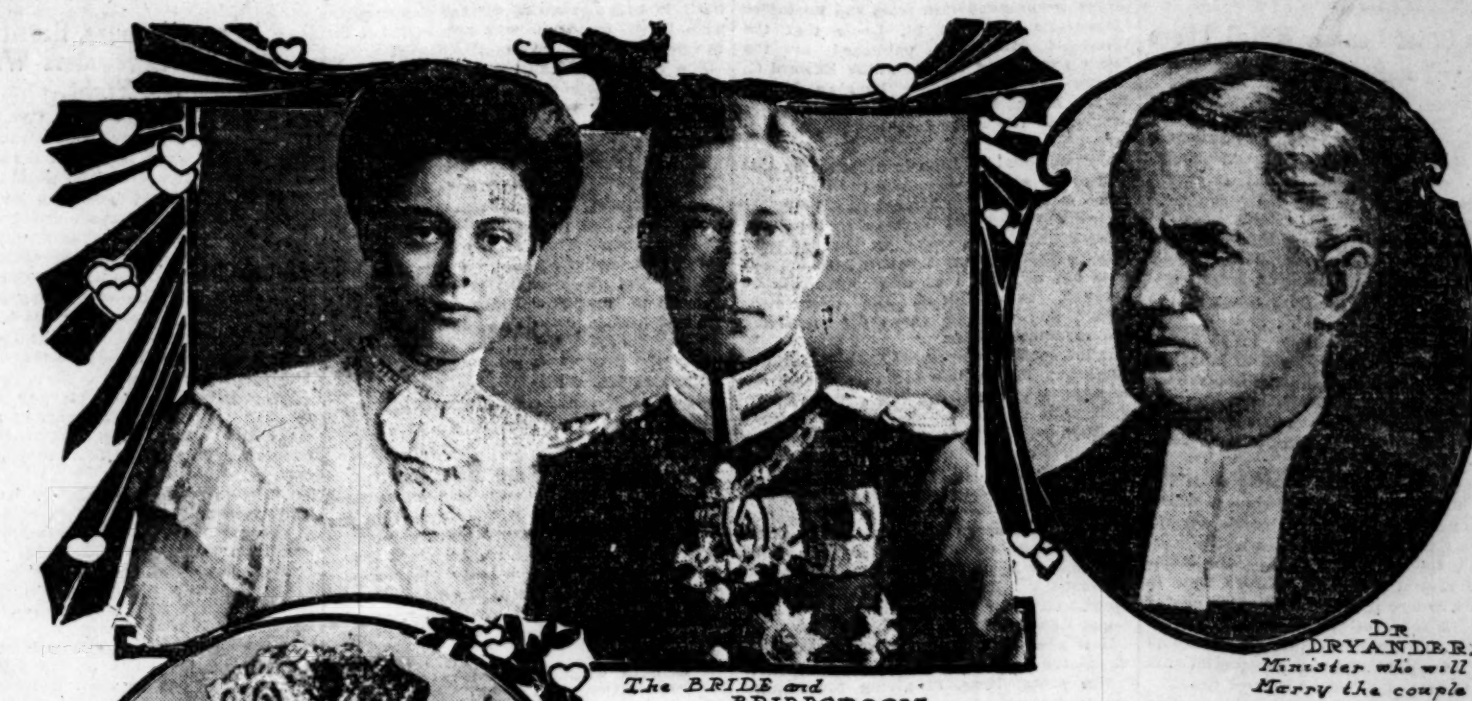

The investigation instituted by postoffice inspectors in the recommendation of St. Louis inspectors that a fraud order be issued to stop the People's United States Bank from using the mails.

COYLE DECLINES TO TELL SECURITIES FOR LOANS OF A MILLION.

James F. Coyle, one of the directors of the People's United States Bank, refused Tuesday to discuss the details of the directors' meeting Monday afternoon. Mr. Coyle said: "Only routine matters were discussed at the meeting, with the exception of the report of the bank's condition, presented by Mr. Lewis. We talked over the selection of the fifth director, but only informally. That is a matter which will be attended to soon, privately at some meeting of the board to be held later this week."

"No, I cannot discuss the details of the loans, amounting to nearly $300,000, nor talk about the securities," stated in the report signed by Mr. Lewis and the cashier, Mr. Putnam. It is against the law to make such a detailed statement. That is a matter of business between the bank and its customers. It is a matter of their business which we have no right to make public. I am sorry to hear that the bank is all right. The securities are there and the money called for is there. That is the principal matter which concerned the bank. I know they are all right."

"I am not at liberty to make any statement regarding the details considered at the meeting of the Board of Directors. Theodore F. Meyer, another director, was not at his office at the Meyer Bros. Drug Co. Tuesday and could not be seen."

HEAT PROSTRATIONS
GO TO CITY HOSPITAL.

All serious cases of heat prostration this summer are to be treated at City Hospital and not at City Dispensary. In former years special preparations were made at the Dispensary for the treatment of such cases, but it is considered best to take them direct to City Hospital. At the hospital a bathtub filled with ice water is constantly in readiness. Into this one prostrated from heat is plunged as soon as received at the institution. After the temperature has been reduced by this means, the patient is given a stimulant and treated in one of the wards until able to leave.

Icebags are kept constantly ready at the Dispensary and when there is a heat prostration call two are taken along in the ambulance and are placed on the head of the victim to keep the temperature down while he is being taken to the hospital. Dr. Henry J. Scherk, City Dispensary physician, says it is important to discriminate between heat stroke and heat exhaustion. In the former there is great increase in temperature, sometimes to as high as 107 or 108. The treatment is ice water baths and ice packs. In heat prostration the temperature goes below normal. G. S. Darter, 40 years old, a huckster, was taken to City Hospital in an unconscious condition Tuesday afternoon from heat. He was picked up at Eleventh street and Lucas avenue.

CAPT. BOYD FREED
BY SUPREME COURT

Holds Defect in Information Against Police Official for Neglect of Duty.

The Supreme Court today at Jefferson City sustained the demurrer in the case of the State vs. Police Captain Samuel J. Boyd, charged with neglect of duty. The information was first held by Judge Moore of the Court of Criminal Correction to be insufficient and the case was taken by the State to the Court of Appeals, who reversed Judge Moore, holding the information to be sufficient.

The Supreme Court, acting on the appeal of the defense, sustains the Court of Appeals on all but one point and holds that where an officer is indicted for malfeasance or neglect of duty, the information or indictment must charge not only neglect, but willful corrupt conduct on his part.

Judge Fox, who wrote the opinion in the case, said, among other things: "Doubtless the defendant in this case, who was a Captain in the Police Department, was under the supervision of the Board of Police Commissioners and the Chief of Police, and for any failure to perform the duties incumbent upon him there is ample provision for removing him from office for such failure. But, as you have no near neighbors and so can have done no great harm with your pig, I'll stay the fine on your promise to get rid of the pig, but you'll have to pay $1 costs."

TOLEDO SCHOOL TEACHERS
INVESTED IN LEWIS' BANK.

TOLEDO, O., June 6.—Several Toledo people, mostly women school teachers, have money invested in stock of the People's United States Bank of St. Louis. During July and August of 1904 the city was flooded with advertisements of the concern and many investments were made by local people. One woman of this city invested $500, with the expectation of receiving immense dividends within a few years. In another family, the father and two daughters invested. The father wrote the men given by the advertisements as references and was assured by them that the bank was all right. Others here took shares of $100, but many of them were paying on the installment plan for their stock.

PIG IN TOWN;
OWNER ARRESTED

Culprit, Violating Ancient Ordinance, Borrows $1 From Policeman to Pay Costs.

William T. Cronin of 320 Hodiadom avenue was tried in the Dayton Street Police Court Tuesday on the charge of keeping a pig within the city limits, this being forbidden by an ancient ordinance. "Was it a shoot or a Yorker?" asked Judge Pollard.

"It was neither, your honor," replied Cronin. "It was a pig."

"Don't you know," asked the court, "that it's very unhealthy to keep a pig so close to human beings?" "I don't believe that can be true, Judge," answered Cronin, "because that pig hasn't been sick a day during the nine days that I've had him."

Cronin had been arrested by Policeman Bierstadt of the Mounted District, and Bierstadt testified that there were no dwelling houses near the Cronin home and the piggy."

"Under the law," said Judge Pollard, "I cannot fine you less than $5 and costs, so I'll fix your fine at the minimum figure. But, as you have no near neighbors and so can have done no great harm with your pig, I'll stay the fine on your promise to get rid of the pig, but you'll have to pay $1 costs."

DIVORCE IF HUSBAND'S TRAMP

With the statement that any woman who could prove that she had gone out and work and that she had a "tramp husband" on her hands, was entitled to a divorce, Judge Reynolds in the Circuit Court Tuesday freed Mrs. Annie M. Herman from Frederick Herman.

DEAD IN HOTEL,
WILL IN POCKET

Construction Superintendent of Western Union Believed to Have Shot Himself.

BULLET HOLE IN TEMPLE

George Gudgeon Left Property to Wife and Child in Document of May 27.

George Gudgeon, superintendent of construction for the Western Telegraph Co., was found lying across a bed in a room at the Edison Hotel, 107 North Eighteenth street, at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, with a bullet hole in his temple, dead. He is supposed to have taken his own life.

Policeman Henderson Combes, standing at Eighteenth and Market streets, heard the sound of two shots and ran to the hotel. In the hallway he met Harry Birrer, manager of the hotel. Birrer said the sound came from the third floor.

The two went to the third floor and to room 44. They found Gudgeon lying on the bed, with a bullet hole in his temple. Gudgeon was stretched across the bed. Beside him was a revolver. The bullet wound was in his right temple.

Searching his pockets, Policeman Combes found several express money orders and several railway passes and miscellaneous letters. Among the latter he found a will made out May 27 for the benefit of Gudgeon's wife and child, giving them his property. Gudgeon's home is at 4061 Sheridan road, avenue. He registered at the hotel Monday.

The will found in Gudgeon's pocket reads as follows: "It is my wish and intention that all the property of any and every kind that may be found in my possession at the time of my death, shall go to my wife, Mary A. Gudgeon, for the sole use and benefit of herself and her minor daughter, Viola Belle Gudgeon."

Gudgeon was 46 years old. When the news of his death was carried to Mrs. Gudgeon at the home on Sheridan road, she was prostrated. A physician was summoned by a neighbor. Mrs. Gudgeon remained unconscious for some time.

Wife Seeks Whereabouts.

At the Western Union Telegraph Co.'s offices it was said that Gudgeon had been foreman of construction of the Second district of that company's territory, comprising Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, Texas and Louisiana, for several years, but that some time ago he had applied for a change of position that would enable him to be more at home and had been made foreman of construction for St. Louis and vicinity.

BERLIN, June 6.—Crown Prince Frederick William and the Duchess Cecelia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin were married by Dr. Dryander, the Court Chaplain, in the small chapel of the Palace at 5 o'clock this afternoon, according to the ritual of the Lutheran Church, which is the same for a Prince as for a subject. About half of the 400 persons present were princes or special ambassadors of other countries, with their aides-de-camp. Ambassador Tower attended as the Extraordinary Ambassador of the United States. Mrs. Tower was with him. The other guests were the diplomatists accredited to this court, the members of the Cabinet, generals and admirals. When Chancellor Von Buelow took his place in the chapel he received the quiet congratulations of those about him on his elevation today to a princely rank by Emperor William. After the other persons were in their places the visiting members of royal families entered. Especially distinguished among them were the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria, representing Emperor Francis Joseph; the Grand Duke Michael of Russia, Prince Henry, consort of the Queen of the Netherlands; the Duke and Duchess of Anhalt, representing the King and Queen of Italy; Prince Arthur of Connaught, representing Great Britain; Prince and Princess Albert of Belgium; Duke of Oporto, representing Portugal; Prince Ferdinand of Roumania, and the Crown Princes of Denmark and Greece.

The junior member of the house of Hohenzollern followed and finally came the Emperor and Empress.

Crown Prince Frederick William entered by a side door of the chapel and waited at the altar for the Duchess Cecelia, who on the arm of her brother, the reigning King and Queen of Italy, Prince Arthur of Connaught, representing Great Britain; Prince and Princess Albert of Belgium; Duke of Oporto, representing Portugal; Prince Ferdinand of Roumania, and the Crown Princes of Denmark and Greece.

Cecelia's Wonderful Silver Train.

The Duchess wore a wonderful train of silver brocade, made at Moscow, and the gift of the Grand Duke Michael. It was borne by two pages. The embroidery on the train, which was nearly 14 feet in length and 7 feet wide, were done after the designs of Prof. Dreyer in pink and silver. The corsage was cut low and trimmed with lace. The bride's veil was of old Brussels lace of great delicacy and beauty. She wore a tulle and the broad blue ribbon of the Grand Star of the Lutheran Order, bestowed on her by the Emperor on Saturday.

Crown Prince Frederick William wore the light blue uniform of a major. First Foot Guards, with red and blue sashes. Across his breast was the light blue ribbon of the Wendische Crown, the highest decoration of the dukedom of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. He also wore the Prussian Order of the Black Eagle.

The service began with the cathedral choir, high up in the circular gallery around the dome of the chapel, singing in double quartet. "He Shall Give His Angels Names." It is the privilege of the pastor, according to the Lutheran rite, to read either one of the several admonitory addresses to the bride couple or to make one of his own. Dr. Dryander elected to lay aside the book, taking as his subject the Book of Ruth, chapter 1, verses 1 and 17, beginning: "For whether thou wilt, I will go with thee. For thy father-in-law said to thee, 'I will go with thee.'"

RAISER OF GOATS FREED FROM WIDOW

Mrs. Carter Drops Breach of Promise Suit for $30,000 Against J. B. Bakewell.

COULD NOT PROVE PLEDGE?

Said She Loved Wealthy Defendant Sued After Waiting Four Years to Wed.

Attorneys in the $30,000 breach of promise case of Mrs. Mary A. Carter of 2810 North Grand avenue, against Joseph B. Bakewell, wealthy raiser of goats and realty owner, who lives at 2604 Mineral avenue, say the dismissal of the suit several days ago in the Circuit Court, where proceedings were instituted March 17, 1905, by Mrs. Carter, was satisfactory to both parties.

Andrew J. Haverswick, representing the defendant, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the case was dropped by Mrs. Carter because it was found, after depositions had been taken, that the alleged promise to wed could not be proven, and that the depositions taken vindicated his client, Mrs. Carter paying the costs into court upon the dismissal of the suit.

Samuel A. Burgess of the legal firm of Burgess & Drost, representing Mrs. Carter, refused to discuss the case except to say that their client had dismissed her suit against Mr. Bakewell.

The case attracted a great deal of attention when the suit was filed because of the defendant's prominence and because of the romantic way in which the promise of marriage was alleged by Mrs. Carter to have been made.

Bakewell is 66 years old, patriarchal in appearance and has been a widower for 15 years. He has a son, two married daughters and two single daughters. The son lives on the father's great farm of 500 acres near Victoria, Jefferson County, Mo., the two unmarried daughters live with their father in St. Louis. Bakewell owns several houses on Grand avenue opposite the old Fair Grounds and is said to be worth about $200,000.

It was one of these houses that Mrs. Carter, now 42 years of age and a widow for about six years, occupied in March, 1901, when she alleges Bakewell promised to wed her.

Soon after Mrs. Carter moved into Bakewell's house on Grand avenue he appointed her his collector and agent to care for his property there.

"Although he was rich and I was poor, I loved him," said Mrs. Carter, when interviewed at the time her suit for breach of promise was filed, "so when he proposed marriage on March 3, 1901, I accepted him and he called frequently up to last Dec. 4, when he told me that he could not keep his promise."

"He used to say that his children opposed our marriage and that one of his daughters was especially hostile to our plan."

"After waiting four years for him to keep his promise and allowing other opportunities to slip by me, I feel that he has done me a great injustice in breaking off our engagement at this late hour."

Mr. Bakewell denied he had ever promised to wed Mrs. Carter, and said that he would fight the case to the last ditch.

Mrs. Carter is the widow of Albert A. Carter, and has three daughters, one of whom is married.

BURGLAR WORKED BOLDLY.
Thief Entered Mrs. Arthur's Home in Daylight.

Mrs. B. B. Arthur of 3915 Olive street left her house for about 10 minutes at 11 o'clock Monday morning, and while she was absent a negro burglar entered and looted the place.

The thief took one suit of clothes, one pair of shoes, four rings, a gold watch chain, a gold pin, $25 in cash, a countenance and two pillow cases. He wrapped up the clothing and other large articles in the counterpane and then went boldly out the rear door of the house, walked around to the front and made his way unconcernedly up the street. He was seen by several neighbors, who supposed that he was a laundryman, and who describe him as being short and heavy set.

OPPOSE SUNDAY BUFFALO CHASE

Massachusetts Editors Withdraw Delegation From National Association Meeting.

DESECRATION OF SABBATH

Two Special Trains of Delegates
Arrive in St. Louis En Route to Convention.

Several hundred delegates en route to the annual convention of the National Editorial Association in Guthrie, O. T., arrived in St. Louis Tuesday morning and departed in the afternoon.

Two special trains, composed of seven sleepers each, will convey the editors over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway to Guthrie.

The editors from Massachusetts have withdrawn their delegation because the national association has chosen the Sabbath as a day to enjoy a buffalo chase and other wild west sports. The Massachusetts Press Association feels that its advice should have been counseled before the entertainment to be given in honor of the association at 101 branch, Guthrie, O. T., was officially announced.

Many of the editors will not attend because the entertainment will be given on Sunday, and the Massachusetts editors have requested that resolutions, which have been adopted protesting against the program, be read before the convention and made a part of the records. One clause in the resolution declares that "the Massachusetts association stands for more than buffalo hunting and Sabbath desecration."

This convention will be the twentieth annual meeting of this body and, although there were objections to it being held in Guthrie, the attendance will be the largest in the history of the organization.

The editors will visit many of the western states and ten days will be spent in Portland and six in California. They will depart at Colorado Springs.

DRIVES HIS AUTO IN SLEEP

Robert Mann Does Fifteen Miles an Hour in Somnambulistic Stunt.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The latest "auto demon" has turned up in the shape of a man asleep. That he drove up Broadway at the rate of 15 miles an hour while asleep in his automobile was the charge made against Robert Mann, an automobile salesman of New Rochelle, when he was arrested in court.

"How do you know he was asleep?" asked the magistrate.

"Well, I couldn't swear to that," replied Bicycle Policeman Mallon, "but his eyes were closed and he was drooping over the steering wheel."

"Well, I was a little sleepy, Judge," Mann admitted, "but I was not asleep. I knew where I was going all right."

"I'll hold you in $500 bail for trial," said the magistrate. "You must be a very expert at violating the law since you can do it with your eyes closed."

YOUTH SAW BROTHER DROWN

Inquest on Vivian Coefield, 11,
Lost in Cahokia Creek.

Deputy Coroner Hertel began an inquest Tuesday into the death of Vivian Coefield, aged 11, son of Robert Coefield of 110 North Tenth street, who was drowned in Cahokia creek Monday. With him was his younger brother, who stood on the bank and watched Vivian drown.

Henry Menzies, master mechanic for the Southern Railroad, was near the drowning and recovered the body after diving for a half hour.

Following the recovery of the body of Leverett Stockton, aged 18, from the Meramec river, at Valley Park, by Frank Chambers and William Cox, an inquest was held by Coroner Koch of St. Louis County and a verdict of accidental death from drowning returned.

THIEVES SCARED BY DOG.

But Not Until They Had Stolen a Pair of Trousers With $557 in the Pockets.

Burglars entered the residence of A. Sandelin, 2833 Lawton avenue, at 4 o'clock Monday morning and stole a pair of trousers in which was $557 in money and jewelry.

Mr. Sandelin was awakened by the dog and ran to an upstairs window after hearing someone jump out of the sitting room window. He could see no one and he did not discover the robbery until morning.

Entrance was gained through a sitting room window, which had been left open. The trousers and a coat were in a sitting room, and it is evident that the thieves entered only the one room before the dog's bark frightened them.

FRAUDS CHARGED IN THE COTTON REPORT

Secretary of Southern Growers' Association Suspicious of Agriculture Department.

THINKS FIGURES ALTERED

Planter Asserts Statistics in Government Bulletin Are Handled for Speculators.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Richard Cheatham of Atlanta, secretary of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, who is in the city, has declared his intention of calling President Roosevelt's attention to what he considers gross irregularities in both the preparation and publication of the Government cotton report issued last Friday.

His intention is to ask for a rigid investigation and that the resignation of one of the important employees in the Statistical Bureau of the Department of Agriculture be demanded. It is understood that he charges some one in the department with having manipulated the figures and given them in advance of publication to certain traders for use in depressing the cotton market.

The Southern Cotton Growers' Association is an organization of planters and Southern cotton brokers whose object is to regulate the cotton market and to protect the planter and other Southern cotton interests from manipulation of the market, tending to depress the price of the staple.

Officers of the association declare they have as many experts as the Department of Agriculture and are determined to secure the most trustworthy information regarding the condition of the crop.

For several months the statistics gathered by the association have been at variance with those emanating from Washington, and the officers of the association, together with brokers and cotton merchants in this city have conducted a secret investigation, in the hope of ascertaining the reasons for the discrepancy.

A prominent broker, it is now asserted, has gathered the most important of the documentary evidence in the case from employees of the Department of Agriculture, he says, some of whom are in the habit of making frequent visits to this city, he learned that advance information regarding the reports could be secured. He followed up this line by inquiring whether or not the report could not be changed and alleges he was successful in this endeavor also, receiving letters from at least one employee of the department, and learning that at least one of the prominent firms of cotton brokers in this city has such an understanding with at least one official of the Government.

Mr. Cheatham was notified of the alleged discoveries by telegraph and made a hurried trip to this city. After many hours spent in consultation he journeyed to Washington, returned a few hours and returned to New York, saying he desired signatures to a document in his possession. It is said Mr. Cheatham will charge that the figures of the Bureau of Statistics have been manipulated in the interests of a certain business element in the market here, and this charge will include not only the furnishing of advance information pertaining to the Government figures, but also falsification of these figures.

In the case of the report issued last Friday he will charge that plans were laid practically a month in advance.

Since Mr. and Mrs. Bryan have been making their home at Fairview they have been attending the church and have taken more than ordinary interest therein. Mrs. Bryan is a teacher in the Sunday school and has a large class. When it has not been possible for her to be present Mr. Bryan offered himself as a substitute. Investigation Tuesday did not reveal the cause of the fire which damaged the Guild Hall on the model street at the World's Fair. Mounted Policemen Keegan and Jones along the street at 9 o'clock when they saw smoke coming from the building. He sent a still alarm to Engine Company No. 1 and later sounded an alarm which brought other companies. Prompt work prevented the destruction of the building.

The Guild Hall was occupied during the Fair by a correspondence school. It belongs to Mrs. Ruth Ashlee Hirschfeld and was intended to be one of the buildings of the permanent model playgrounds in Forest Park.

"JUMP, DAN! JUMP!" YELLED ENGINEER

Two Men on Locomotive at The Willows, East St. Louis, Escape Death.

RAN INTO AN OPEN SWITCH

Owing to the error of an engineer in interpreting lower signals, the in-bound St. Louis express No. 7 of the Vandallia-Pennsylvania road was run into an open switch at the Willows, near East St. Louis, at 9 o'clock Monday night, the engine derailed, the engineer and fireman jumping for their lives, and a disastrous wreck narrowly averted by the quick action of the air-brakes.

The Willows, near Central Park, just outside of East St. Louis, is where Vandallia trains turn to cross the Merchants' Bridge coming into St. Louis, and there are four tracks crossing at that point, and a signal tower. The express due at Union Station at 9:17 Monday night reached the Willows on time and Engineer William Price of Terre Haute, Ind., read the signal light to mean that he was to run his train straight ahead on the track on which it was then speeding at a rate of 45 miles an hour. A moment after he had passed the signal tower, he saw that he had made a mistake and that his train was on an open switch.

On one side was a 20-foot embankment at the base of which were the waters of Goose Lake, about 5 feet deep at that point. Engineer Price at once put on the air-brakes, reversed his engine and called out to Fireman Dan Walsh, also of Terre Haute:

"Jump, Dan! Jump quick!" Both men sprang from the engine, and the next moment the engine was off the track and overturned, being badly smashed up. By this time, however, the train had been brought to a standstill and no car left the track. The passengers were badly shaken up and frightened, but no one was injured, save that Wayne Adams of 440 St. Louis avenue had one tooth knocked out.

The mail car ran about fifteen feet off the track, but was not overturned or injured. The engineer and fireman escaped serious injury.

ANNA AWAKE FOR EGYPTIAN HUSTLERS

Drummers Intend to Give Illinois Town the Time of Its Life.

Anna is not an Oriental name, but the Egyptian Hustlers are all "for" Anna. Every member of that organization of drummers which operates in the lower portion of Illinois, known as Egypt, has said that he intends to be with Anna, Thursday, Friday and Saturday and they say they intend to show Anna the time of Anna's life.

They will probably do it, too, for Anna is not a very large city and there will be drummers from such places as St. Louis and Chicago. The President of the organization is J. M. Hockmuth, 3688 Castlemans avenue, St. Louis; Charles Lacy, 378 Lincoln avenue, is Secretary. A great many St. Louisans will be guests of Anna during the three days sessions of the Egyptian Hustlers.

A shooting tournament, a Mardi Gras, a music relay race for gentlemen riders, fireworks and other things have been arranged.

The Celebrity barefoot sandals cost no more than ordinary sandals. Boehmer.

RUNAWAY TEAM HIT POLE.

Three Occupants of Carriage Have Escaping Experience.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Boeckeler of 30 Portland place and their guest, Mrs. Lizzie Harrison of Buffalo, Ind. were recovered Tuesday from their exciting experience of Monday evening when a team behind which they were riding in a closed carriage ran away on crowded Lindell boulevard with them.

At Grand avenue two men tried to stop the horses. They swerved to one side and almost upset the carriage. At Channing avenue Jacob Elzer, who had been behind the horses into a pole at the curb. The tongue of the carriage was broken and the occupants of the carriage were thrown from the seats, but were not seriously hurt.

ROBBER IS SHOT DEAD.

White Man Killed by Chicagoan, Confederate Escapes.

CHICAGO, June 6.—An unidentified robber, who entered the fruit store of Theilke Bros. early today, was shot and instantly killed by Michael Theilke, a member of the firm.

A white robber, in company with a negro confederate, entered the store and commanded John Theilke, who had been behind the counter to hold up his hands.

The noise made by the intruders awakened Michael Theilke, who had been asleep in a rear room. Michael seized a revolver and fired three shots, killing the white robber. The negro fled.

His Lesson.

From the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune. "Why is it, Wiley, that 'fews are more interesting and attractive than other married women of single'?"

"They are not, old man. They just seem to be."

"Well, how is a man to prove it?"

"Marry one of them and find out. That's how I learned."

MILLION RED SPOTS PAINTED ONE NIGHT

Four Hundred and Fifty Men Decorate Tops of Stop Boxes of Laclede Gas Company.

When the people of St. Louis awoke Tuesday morning they found that the town had been painted red over night. The sidewalks were dotted with something like a million bright red spots, which had not been there when the town went to sleep. The red spots were the tops of the stop-boxes of the Laclede Gas Co. They were painted red so as to be more readily distinguishable from the surrounding sidewalk and more readily found when, on account of a fire or other emergency, it is desirable to turn off the gas quickly. The work was done in one night by an army of 400 men, who were started out Monday evening, each armed with a bucket of paint and a brush. As there are about 50 stop-boxes in every block the men did not have much fun in painting the town red.

Knox Ten O'clock for men, M. S. G. H. Boehmer Shoe Co., sole agents, 410-12 Bldg. Frick After Hyde in Pittsburgh. PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 6.—H. C. Frick and President McAdams of the Union Trust Co. were in Mr. Frick's office several hours this morning. A. W. Mellon, President Mellon National Bank, took Mr. Mellon's place when he left Frick's office. It was apparent that there was something doing towards ousting James H. Hyde of the Equitable Life Assurance Society from the directorate of the two financial institutions. Mr. Frick and Mr. Hyde are both directors of each, the latter through the courtesy of Mr. Frick, who is the largest shareholder in both banks.

GAYNOR AND GREENE TO BE SURRENDERED

Canada Decides to Give Up Fugitives From United States After Long Fight.

MONTREAL, June 6.—Judge Lafontaine, extradition commissioner, gave judgment today in the case of the United States vs. John P. Gaynor and Benjamin D. Greene, committing both for extradition and ordering them back to jail to await surrender to United States officers. Gaynor and Greene were accused of complicity with United States Army Captain Oberlin M. Carter in the Savannah harbor frauds. They fled to Canada several years ago and have been intermittently fighting extradition ever since.

MISSING BOY FOUND; LOST, NOT KIDNAPED

Little Johnnie Davidson Was With Necess Who Picked Him Up on Street.

Little Johnnie Davidson, 6 years old, was not kidnapped at all. For 36 hours little Johnnie's mother, Mrs. Mabel Davidson of 4113 Laclede avenue, was distracted because of his disappearance, and haunted the Manchester Avenue Police Station in an effort to learn if the police had heard of him. Last night Police Officer Timothy J. Sullivan became a detective, whose duty it was to find little Johnnie, and at 5:30 a. m. today he found the boy.

Little Johnnie was at Kirkwood with a negro woman, Martha Arnold, who had found him alone and crying on the street Sunday night, had petted him and tried to comfort him, and then he ran after her and cried in a new outburst of grief at his fear of losing his new-found friend, had taken him to her home, cared for him and fed him.

Sunday night little Johnnie went walking with his mother, Mrs. Nelson, who lives with them. Little Johnnie got separated from the women, and when they went to look for him he was not to be found. They looked for him everywhere, it seemed to them, but they did not look in the right place.

When little Johnnie found he was lost he was at Sarah street and Laclede avenue. He could not find his home. It was dark and little Johnnie was frightened. He began to cry.

A Laclede avenue car came along, stopped, and two negro women, Martha Arnold and Lucy Wake, who had been to Jefferson Barracks, got off. They saw the weeping little boy and he came and spoke to him. He sobbed replies to their questions and they petted him. His tears dried.

Then their car, a south-bound Meramec Highlands car, came along. They told little Johnnie they had to leave him and go home. Little Johnnie wanted to go with them, but they said they could not take him, that his mamma would be uneasy about him.

They got aboard the car and the car started. Little Johnnie, crying bitterly, ran after it. The conductor, Patrick Murren, stopped and took him aboard. He ran to the two women, threw himself into their arms, and begged them not to leave him. They took him in the seat with them, and before they got to Kirkwood he had sobbed himself to sleep.

At this time little Johnnie's mamma was looking for him. She had gone to her home, but he was not there. Then she had asked the police if they had seen him, and heard that they had not. She asked others, and finally she found Robert Elliot of 4108 Laclede avenue, who had seen the boy walking with little Johnnie. The mother became convinced, then, that her child had been kidnapped.

She begged Capt. Joyce of the Manchester Avenue Station to find little Johnnie for her. Capt. Joyce had a patrolman in his quire and report. None could trace the child.

Sleuth on the Trail. So late yesterday afternoon Capt. Joyce told Police Officer Sullivan himself to find little Johnnie and Sullivan took up the search. First, he found Elliot, and had him look closely at every conductor and motorman in an effort to find the one whose car the women and little boy had boarded. Elliot could identify none.

Sullivan went to the Suburban car house and learned that Conductor Murren had worked Sunday night, but was not working last night. Murren lives at 6723 Mitchell avenue. Sullivan went out there to see him, and Murren told him of stopping the car and taking the little boy on after the women had started to leave him.

He told of the women leaving the car with the child in Kirkwood. His search was a long one, but at last he found the house. Little Johnnie had just arisen and was playing contentedly about the yard. Martha Arnold told the policeman she wanted her son take little Johnnie back to the spot where she found him Monday morning, believing he could easily find his home in daylight, but he refused to leave her. She was going to bring him back to the corner herself today.

Policeman Sullivan took little Johnnie and his guardian to the Manchester Avenue Police Station, where they awaited the arrival of Capt. Joyce. Martha Arnold was released, and little Johnnie's mother was notified that he had been found.

She took her own treatment, dead.

Mrs. Sarah Brackett, Christian Scientist, Burned in Explosion, Refused Any but Science Healers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—A gasoline stove at the residence of Mrs. Sarah Brackett exploded, setting fire to the lady's dress. Before help reached her she was badly burned about the body and had inhaled the flames to such an extent that her throat was badly parched.

Dr. A. W. Davis, a nearby physician, was called, but the woman refused to be treated by him and insisted that a Christian Science healer be called.

This was done and the "Science" treatment was given. Mrs. Brackett died soon after in much agony.

Deputy Coroner Parker held an inquest and said that had the woman received proper care she would have been saved suffering if not her life.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children; whenever a laxative remedy is required.

Parrots and Men Are Much Alike—Talk Betrays Them

The Office Boy Narrates the Trick That Polly Played on His Pa Captured Only When He Talked Too Much.

"Did you ever have a polly?" asked Sammy, the office boy, looking toward Eddie, the other office boy, who looked puzzled. "How'd you know?" he asked. "Ain't she a beauty? I'm going to take her to the Highways tomorrow night if her ma will let her go." "You mean you're going to take her to the Highways?" asked Eddie. "Yes, I am," said Sammy. "I've got a polly at my house that's a dandy. It's a man polly, but it talks just as much. You know, it isn't always the ladies that keep the gabfest going, anyhow. Our polly says a lot of things that ma taught him and thinks are cute, and a lot more things that tickle pa but make ma blush and say, 'Jamee, stern-like.' We raised polly from a kid, or a pup, or a squab, or whatever you call a polly baby. Yesterday when I got home, ma had pa

CATARRAH TROUBLES PREVALENT

Spring Months Cause Catarrh—Breathe Hyomei and be Cured.

Catarrhal troubles are more common at this season of the year than at any other time of the year. The sudden changes that come during the spring months are productive of many cases of catarrh that without proper treatment will become chronic.

The pleasantest, most convenient and only scientific method for the treatment and cure of catarrh is Hyomei. Simply put twenty drops in the little pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit and then breathe it for three minutes four times a day.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar and as the inhaler will last a lifetime and there is sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment, it is the most economical catarrhal remedy known. Extra bottles can be procured for fifty cents. Ask Judge & Dolph or Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. to show you the strong guarantee under which they sell Hyomei.

A DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT.

People who take patent medicines are usually their own diagnosticians. A severe pain in the back of the head, over the eyes or under the shoulder blade, is often attributed to cold and treated without effect. In almost every instance these pains are caused by biliousness and are immediately relieved by HEPTOL SPLITS.

Marriage Surprises Friends.

The Belleville friends of Ed Miller and Miss Ella Meyer learned Tuesday with surprise that they had been married Monday in East St. Louis. They had taken nobody into their confidence. Miss Meyer, who has been employed at a dry goods store in Belleville, did not even resign until she left the store Saturday night. Her friends learned of the marriage Monday morning, but late Monday afternoon she went to the store and told of having been married.

JURORS QUALIFY IN MEYERS CASE

Panel of Forty Ready From Which to Select Twelve to Pass on Murder Charge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LIBERTY, Mo., June 6.—One hundred men of Clay County reported in the court today for jury service in the murder trial of Mrs. Ames Meyer. From this venire of 100 jurors, 40 men qualified for jury service will be chosen. When that is done there will be a wait of 24 hours, in which the lawyers upon each side will consider their challenges.

It is said that the introduction of testimony will begin Thursday morning. Judge Alexander will hold night sessions of the court so as to finish the trial by Saturday night. One of the papers read by Mrs. Meyer as she sat in the courtroom Monday afternoon was the Christian Herald. But she makes no religious pretenses. She said she read the paper only because there were things in it that interested her.

There will be big crowds at the trial. It is a novel thing here to see a woman upon trial for murder, and there will be sensational features in this case. Among them will be the meeting of Mrs. Meyer and Holman. They have not seen each other since they parted in the Meyers collage the night of the murder. There is great curiosity to know what she will do and what he will do when they come face to face in the courtroom.

MISS ROOSEVELT AT A COUNTRY DINNER

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—Miss Alice Roosevelt was the guest of honor last night at the Pillars, one of the places of the Country Club, at a dinner dance. Dinner was served on one of the long porches and June roses were everywhere. Country fiddlers furnished the music, which was strictly of "the old-time backwoods and plantation breakdown styles." Country fried chicken was the chief article of fare of the thoroughly country feast. Miss Roosevelt, Mrs. Wallingford and most of the other women were simple, cool, altogether comfortable gowns of white. The days of Miss Roosevelt's visit are being delightfully spent. No elaborate plans are made for her entertainment, but every hour is delightful. Two dinners already have been arranged, one by Miss Anne Harrison, at the Country Club, Wednesday night, after Mrs. Wallingford's garden party, and one by Mrs. Arthur Stem, Thursday night at her home.

Miss Roosevelt accepted, through Congressman Longworth, the invitation from the owners of the National Baseball Club, to attend a game Thursday. The private box will be patriotically draped and the occasion will be designated "Alice Roosevelt Day."

GANG OF SEVENTEEN THIEVES RUINED

Big Haul of Crooks, Including Four Women, and $10,000 Worth of Plunder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, June 6.—Seventeen members of a band of house-breakers and hold-up men have been captured by the police. Four of the members are women, who were used by the men as spies in houses selected to be robbed. The women were selected as ex-convicts, and were given a wage as maids or rent apartments. "Four" fences were uncovered as the result of the arrests. More than $10,000 worth of household goods and jewelry were recovered. Five of the men have been identified as ex-convicts.

"Burglaries, hold-ups, porch climbers and confidence games of all sorts, including the use of drugs for victims, are what we have in this band," said Inspector Wheeler. "Two of the women—Stella Dunham and Myrtle Adams—are clever confidence operators. They only went after big game."

BELLEVILLE ADDS 15 FEET

Belleville has begun to expand. It grew 15 feet Monday night with the greatest ease. By resolution of the City Council a piece of ground 15 feet square in Braun's addition was annexed to the city.

This was because it had been discovered that the surveyors, in establishing the city limits, had left a mud of two lots out in St. Clair County. To enable the owner to live altogether in Belleville the little square was annexed.

DELCASSE LEAVES CABINET OF FRANCE

Minister of Foreign Affairs, Presumably Under Pressure From Kaiser, Lays Down Portfolio.

PARIS, June 6.—Foreign Minister Delcasse has resigned and his resignation has been accepted by President Loubet. Premier Rouvier will act temporarily as Minister of Foreign Affairs until M. Delcasse's successor has been chosen.

M. Delcasse's resignation is generally attributed to the influence of the Kaiser. The minister has been, perhaps, the most urgent of French officials in insisting on the predominance of Gallic interests in Morocco. This attitude has been bitterly fought by Germany and no doubt exists in political circles that the Emperor has done all in his power to place the Minister of Foreign Affairs in a position antagonistic to the rest of the French Cabinet.

M. Delcasse tendered his resignation but a few weeks ago. At that time it was refused, and, after considerable negotiation, the Minister was prevailed on not to insist on retirement. His present action comes as a surprise to all Europe.

The cause of peace in the far East has had no warmer advocate than M. Delcasse. His influence has been largely dependent on a secure favorable terms for Russia, the event of an early cessation of hostilities, and his resignation is admittedly a heavy blow to the peace party in Russia.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains the linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it, or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure to mention that you read this generous offer in the St. Louis Daily Post-Dispatch. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root—Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root—and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

STATE WILL NOW TAKE UP PROBE FOR EQUITABLE

Report of Insurance Superintendent Hendricks Making Charges Against Officers Expected to Cause Extra Session of Legislature.

Resignations of More Directors Are Sent In and Additional Retirements Are Anticipated Before Today Closes.

NEW YORK, June 6.—It was learned upon unquestioned authority this morning that the report of Francis Hendricks, State Superintendent of Insurance, has been already drawn up so far as James H. Hyde is concerned. The report of Mr. Hendricks will find in connection with Mr. Hyde.

First—That James H. Hyde has been guilty of acts as Vice-President of the Equitable Life which require his removal as an officer and director of the society. Second—That the Attorney-General of the State will be directed to bring an action for the removal of Mr. Hyde as an officer and director of the Equitable Life.

In regard to James W. Alexander, the report of the State Superintendent will find that he has been negligent and is incapacitated by age to administer the many duties of the important office of President of the Equitable Life. No charge of dishonesty will be made against President Alexander.

Notwithstanding the statement made by Gov. Higgins at Albany that he did not believe that a legislative investigation of the Equitable scandal would be necessary, it is positively learned that a special session of the Legislature will be called about the middle of the present month, and that an overwhelming demand for an investigation of the Equitable would then be made. The report of Superintendent Hendricks will be made public on June 15, just about the time the Legislature will convene in special session.

Though E. H. Harriman, who was practically driven out of the board of directors Friday last by James H. Hyde, would make no statement today, it was learned that he intends to do everything in his power to drive Mr. Hyde out of the society. Should Mr. Harriman decide that a legislative inquiry will bring about this result, it is expected that he will urge ex-Gov. E. B. Odell, when the latter arrives here from Europe next Saturday, to use all his power as leader of the Republican State machine to have the Legislature, at its special session, appoint an investigation committee.

The present condition of the Equitable was described by one of its officers as most deplorable. He said that it was due, in a way, to the rule or ruin policy which young Mr. Hyde or his advisers have seen fit to adopt. The business of writing new insurance, he said, had come practically to a standstill. The agents of the company in this and other cities are leaving the Equitable in droves and the whole agency force, he said, was disorganized. Last month new business fell off $3,000,000.

The directors of the Equitable are rapidly being depleted. Men who labored for months to bring some kind of order out of the chaos into which the affairs of the society have degenerated are giving up the task as hopeless. Jacob H. Schiff, for 12 years a director of the society, sent in his resignation last night. T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston, another director, and one of the members of the nominating committee of seven appointed to select a candidate for the newly created office of chairman of the board, also formally announced his determination to resign.

The resignation of Melville E. Ingalls, it is expected, will also be announced at tomorrow's meeting of the board.

Several times since last Friday D. O. Mills has practically made up his mind to resign from the Board of Directors and as a member of the Nominating Committee of seven.

Mr. Mills to induce him to defer his resignation until after tomorrow's meeting. A. A. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., has resigned from the directorate of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Fourth Vice-President William H. McIntyre was examined today by Superintendent Hendricks of the State Department. Mr. McIntyre is a supporter of James A. Hyde.

MRS. GEORGE GOULD HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Railroad Magnate's Wife and Her Friends Plunge in Carriage Over Mountain Cliff.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BEACON, N. Y., June 6.—Mrs. George Gould, her daughter Marjorie, and Miss Corbett, a friend of Miss Marjorie, had a thrilling experience while driving over a Catskills road Saturday afternoon.

They left Fort Lough Lodge, the Goulds' mountain home, early in the afternoon. A mile from the lodge one of the horses lost its footing on the shelf road and, falling, rolled over the embankment. His weight carried the other with it, and the carriage went tumbling down the embankment, some 30 feet. It turned over and finally rested against a tree.

The three women were thrown out, but strangely escaped injury of any kind. A very, the coachman, was pinned between the three and the carriage, and his shoulder was dislocated.

MOODY WAITS ON ST. LOUIS ACTION FIRST

Attorney-General at Washington Makes Public Position in Bridge Affair.

TOOK UP MATTER JAN. 13

First Step Was to Lay Investigation
Before Dyer and He Waits Result.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Attorney-General Moody will take no action in the Merchants' bridge case until he has heard from the District Attorney at St. Louis.

This afternoon Moody gave out the following statement: "In the summer of 1896 the Department of Justice under the direction of Attorney-General Harmon and at instance of the Interstate Commerce Commission, directed the District Attorney at St. Louis to present to the grand jury facts which it was thought disclosed violations of the interstate commerce act on the part of the companies operating the bridges connecting St. Louis and East St. Louis. This was done, but the grand jury failed to return any indictment. Upon complaint made to the department last December in regard to an alleged monopoly in the bridge transportation the Attorney-General instructed the District Attorney at St. Louis to make a thorough investigation of this subject and report the facts to the department, together with the conclusions of law you may reach upon them."

"The St. Louis Manufacturers' Association expressly desired the Attorney-General to be heard upon the subject. Under date of April 24, 1905, the Attorney-General wrote the President of the association as follows: 'I shall be pleased to have a representative of the various associations interested call at this department in person at the time a statement of facts covering the existence of an alleged unlawful monopoly of bridge and ferry facilities across the Mississippi river at St. Louis is submitted to me.'"

"No further communication has been received from these associations. Under date of May 15, 1905, the District Attorney made a partial report to the department of the investigation thereof which was begun on Jan. 13, and is still in progress and unfinished. There is nothing more which can be said in this department."

It will be seen from the above that the investigation by the District Attorney has been in progress since Jan. 13. District Attorney Dyer was in Washington recently in conference with Attorney-General Moody, but it was stated at the time that it had no connection with the bridge case.

Woman Forgave Girl Who Stole Watch—"It Was Partly My Own Fault," She Says

MRS. NETTIE LEINKER

Mrs. Leinker Proves That She Has Charity for One of Her Own Sex—Saves Child From Prison and From a Beating, Too.

BY ROSE MARION.

Much has been written of woman's unkindness to woman.

This is a story of one woman's kindness to a girl who has few years to live before she reaches womanhood.

The circumstances of the stealing of a watch from Mrs. Nettie Leinker of 1708 North Ninth street by a little girl, known here as Pina, were told in the Post-Dispatch Saturday. Mrs. Leinker refused to prosecute the girl, who first denied, but afterwards admitted her guilt. She was in a police station and the woman from whom she stole was summoned.

Since Mrs. Leinker is the good woman of this tale I shall let her tell this part of the story. Know first that though she is a young woman she has known much sorrow. When she was a wife of six months her husband died suddenly. Those who know her talk of her sunny disposition and her kindness of heart.

"It seemed so hard, all of us grown-up ones, and that child all by herself," said Mrs. Leinker. "We the accusers, she the accused. She ran to me at once and threw her arms around me, saying: 'Even if I wanted your watch ever so much I'd give it back, you're so good.' I kissed the child and petted her. All the trouble seemed gone. She was so glad that she had told her fault."

"The police said she must stay there all night and we left her there. She did not mind to mind staying."

"Early the next morning her mother came to our house. She had cried until she could scarcely talk. In broken English she said, 'If you will only let her go I shall tell her stepfather to beat her hard. Only don't send her to the jail.'"

"I told her that I did not want the child to go to jail, neither did I want her beaten. 'We went to the police station. I think much of my watch because of its associations, but I was almost willing to give it up rather than prosecute that child.'"

"I felt that it was my fault. I placed temptation in her way. Had I not been careless with my watch, she could not have taken it."

"Girls of her age, like beautiful things. They like to show them to their friends and be glad because they have them. She has no such trinkets. It was so easy for her to take the watch."

"I might have felt different had she been grown or if she had been a 'ferent kind of child. I felt that it was her first fault, and I was sure that she had suffered enough for it."

"The torture of the time before she confessed must have been great. When I was a child I remember that I always told my faults—they were usually those of carelessness—as quickly as I could, glad to take my punishment and know that the 'telling' was off my mind."

"The officials explained that I could have my watch without prosecution and I was glad to try. I thought it was a bad thing for a child's memory that she should watch to her and told her that she must give it to me. She did so."

"Only one thing was she asked to do—write her name in the big book. That will be sufficient reminder."

"I believe that one must suffer for the wrong he does, but I do not think the pain should be measured, but that child had suffered enough."

"I begged her mother not to let her stepfather punish her. I feared that punishment would spoil the effect of the lesson. One can do so much for the helping of those who do wrong by kindness."

"I do not think the child will take what is not her own. Pina and her mother and Mrs. Leinker and her brother and sister walked away from the police court together, she forgiving and the forgiven hand in hand."

St. Louis has more Post-Dispatch readers every day than it has homes.

Assaulted in Saloon.
George Smith, a Russian, 149 North Third street, was taken to the City Dispensary this morning, badly bruised, as the result of a fight in a saloon on P'allen street between Tenth and Eleventh streets. He said that he was attacked by a man who objected to his watching a game of cards at the rear of the saloon and was struck several times with a pair of "knucks."

"ROADS UNITED WORKING TO END BRIDGE TOLLS"

Chairman Walsh of Terminal Board Says Arbitrary Is Sure to Go, but Declines to Set the Time.

SECY TAFT SUGGESTS JURY INVESTIGATION.

Law Doesn't Justify Action by Him, He Says, but Federal Attorney Might Act—Dyer Not Ready Yet.

Julius S. Walsh, chairman of the board of directors of the Terminal Railroad Association, Tuesday reiterated to a Post-Dispatch reporter his announcement that the bridge arbitrary, which places an embargo on all St. Louis shipments to and from points east of the Mississippi River, would be abolished.

"As to the exact time when this important step will be taken by the lines embracing the Terminal Association," added Mr. Walsh, "I am not willing to venture a prediction."

"Do you think relief will come inside of six months?" Mr. Walsh was asked.

"I really cannot say as to that," he answered. "But that the arbitrary will be a thing of the past before long I am certain."

"In the movement now under way the various roads entering St. Louis, which own and control the Terminal Association, are working harmoniously, and it is the general verdict of their managements that something must be done to relieve present conditions."

Manufacturers to Meet.
President Cyrus P. Wainwright of the Business Men's League said he had nothing to add to his interview published in the Post-Dispatch Monday, in which he declared he had excellent reasons for believing that the Terminal Association had decided upon plans whereby the bridge arbitrary would be wiped out.

President L. D. Kingsland of the Manufacturers' Association will issue a call for a meeting in a few days of the St. Louis Manufacturers' Association to consider the St. Louis Terminal Association's decision.

In case the Terminal Association takes no action relative to the bridge arbitrary, he thinks the citizens of St. Louis should get together and construct a free bridge.

United States District Attorney Dyer, when asked about Secretary Taft's suggestion of an investigation by the federal grand jury, said in effect that he should not cross the Merchants' Bridge until he came to it. He said the Department of Justice had not taken the matter up with him and pending such action, there is nothing before him officially.

Secretary Taft Suggests Grand Jury Investigation of Bridge Monopoly.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Under the decision of Secretary of War Taft refusing to seize the Merchants' Bridge for violation of charter, the text of which is now made public, two courses are left open for further action. They are:

1. Mandamus proceedings by the Attorney-General of Missouri to compel action by the Secretary of War.

2. Investigation of the St. Louis bridge monopoly by the Federal Grand Jury for the Eastern District of Missouri with a view to determining whether it has violated the interstate commerce law.

These two courses are set out by Secretary Taft in concluding his opinion on the case, containing 7000 words. He said:

"In order to make clear the point which is raised in this case, to wit, that that which has been done is not a violation of the words of the statute constituting a monopoly of the bridge, but a violation between violation of this act and violations of a statute couched in general terms, I may say that there is, probably, sufficient shown to justify an investigation into the question whether there is not in substance and effect an agreement between those controlling the two companies, which constitutes such an illegal restraint of interstate commerce so as to justify proceedings to secure an injunction against its continuance, and a punishment of those who have made it and have thus far carried it out."

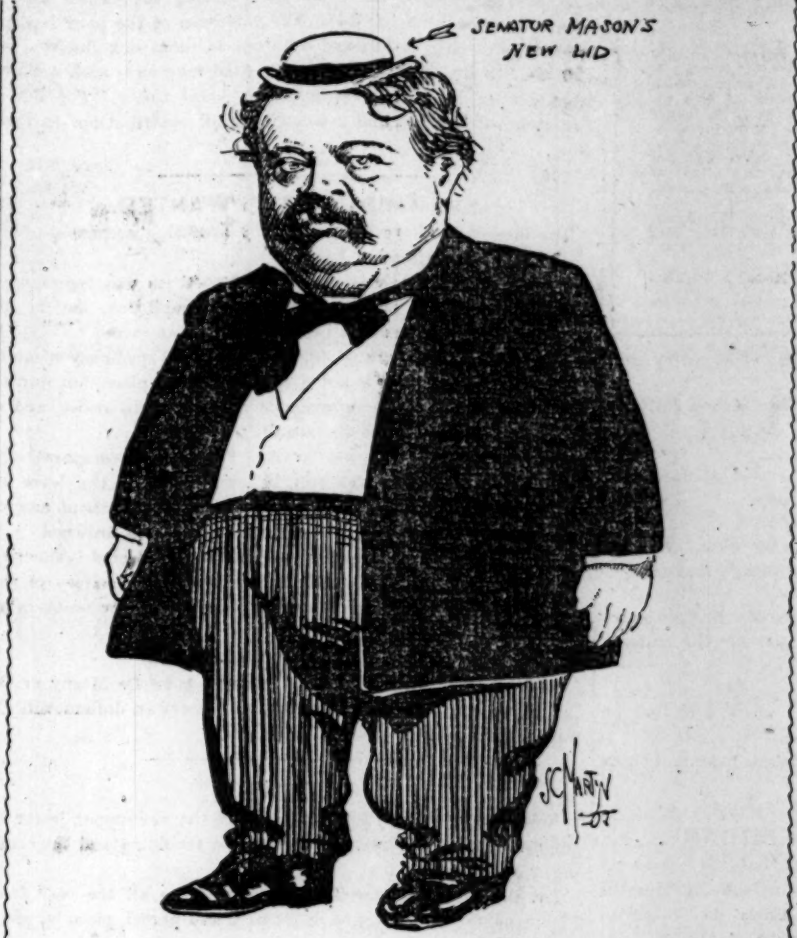

"That, however, is not a matter for the War Department, but a matter for the Department of Justice, and possibly for the investigation of the grand jury in the Eastern District of Missouri."

"In view of the mandatory character of the statute, if I have made a mistake in the construction of the statute, I am subject to a suit in mandamus to compel me to comply with the duty therein imposed. In case of error on my part the public is, therefore, not remedied. But for the reasons given I do not think that any occasion has arisen in this case for the action of the Secretary of War, and I decline, therefore, either to attempt to take possession of the Merchants' Bridge, or failing to obtain possession peaceably, to bring any action on the theory that a forfeiture has occurred."

Department of Justice.
To give force to these suggestions Secretary Taft has sent a copy of his opinion to the Department of Justice in order that the Attorney-General, if he sees fit, may direct the United States District Attorney at St. Louis to call the grand jury's attention to the case.

After reviewing the various steps by

Senator Mason Lost His Lid; It Had Been Lifted by a Kid

It was a jolly Senator who lost his flaring lid, and in its place he found a hat deserted by a kid.

"Wasn't 'Bully' Mason, a shining legal light, who from Chicago came down here a get-rich case to fight."

When rosy "Bully" arose to go, he found his lid was gone, and though the lid was on the town, he had none to put on.

He rushed around the corridor, his face with rage on fire, and said a few colorful words to Col. D. Pat Dyer.

But no relief was found until at last, a pile amid, he spied a '65 hat, of which some boy was rid.

"Eureka!" yelled Mason, but when he donned the hat, a wild, derisive, mocking shout arose from Col. Pat.

"Like a butterfly," he said, "perched on a big sunflower," whereat he laughed again, with all his pulmonary power.

So "Bully" Mason raced and chased around the hall again, perspiring in a style unknown to lank and skinny men.

At last he found the missing hat, and blissfully he smiled, and kicked aside the dinky lid constructed for a child.

Then he was in condition to face his fellow men, being a Free and Accepted Mason once again.

which the Merchants' Bridge passed from the control of the St. Louis Merchants' Association to that of the Terminal Railroad Association, which also has a perpetual lease on the Eads Bridge, Secretary Taft said:

In effect, what was, was control by the Terminal Association of the Eads Bridge through a lease, and the control by the same association of the Merchants' Bridge through holding a majority of the stock in the St. Louis Merchants Bridge Terminal Association, which owned all the stock of the Merchants' Bridge.

"It is unnecessary to dispute, indeed, I am fully willing to concede, that this shows a control by the same company of the two bridges, and that if the control by one corporation as lessee of one bridge and majority stockholder in another constitutes a consolidation of the two bridge companies owning the two bridges, then the inhibition of the statute has been violated and a forfeiture has taken place, and it will be the duty of the Secretary of War to make useful the result of the transfer by forfeiture of the property in the bridge from the bridge company and its bondholders to the United States."

More than this, it is very probable, from the recital in Section 11, as follows: "Whereas, a principal reason for giving authority to the Secretary of War to take possession of the bridge herein controlled is to secure reasonable rates and tolls for corporations and individuals for the use of the same," that the general passing over of Congress was to prevent a destruction of competition by the two bridges by permitting control of the two bridges to come under one management.

The difficulty in carrying out the intention of Congress, he says, is due to the fact that "Congress has not made a requisite in law to carry out the general intention of the bridge charter, says the secretary, provide for forfeiture under three conditions:

1. Pooling of the earnings of the Merchants' Bridge Co. with those of any other bridge company.

2. When the Secretary of War or manager of any other bridge company is a director or officer of the Merchants' Bridge Co., or its successors shall agree or consent to the consolidation of the Merchants' Bridge Co. with any other bridge company across the Mississippi river.

It is not alleged, the secretary says, that the first two conditions exist and the case narrows down to a question of consolidation.

Referring to the fact that the charter provides forfeiture of the bridge as a penalty which in the eyes of the law is a severe action he says:

"The whole trend of a mind educated in the common law shrinks from the treatment of an exceptional and severe statute like this in any other way than by adherence to the technical legal construction of the terms used in describing the 'particulars' of the violation of which is to constitute the forfeiture. Therefore, it seems clear to me that the term 'consolidation,' as used in this statute, does not include the mere common control of the two bridge companies by the lease of the bridge of one and the ownership of a majority of stock in a middle company owning all the stock of the second bridge company."

This conclusion is enforced by the original legislation and the amended constitution, the effect of which we are considering. In original section 11, the first particular violation of which was to constitute a forfeiture, was consent to the consolidation of this bridge with any other bridge across the Mississippi river.

Now, by the amendment there was inserted after the word "bridge" the word "company," so that the consolidation paragraph, which was to constitute a forfeiture, was not any longer a consolidation of the two bridges as originally provided, but a consolidation of the two bridge companies.

Secondly, while in the original section ownership of stock in the two companies by the same proposition was to constitute a ground for forfeiture, this was expressly and as industrial control from the amended section.

"NOTHING UNDER IT!" THEN CARPET MOVED

Mother's Story to Sheriff Futile for Youth, Accused of Robbery, Was Restless.

"What's the meaning of this?" demanded Deputy Sheriff Seidel.

As he spoke he pointed sternly to a pile of carpet and furniture at one side of the little bedroom.

The scene was the second floor of 1019 North Seventh street. In the room with the officer was Mrs. Mable, mother of Samuel of the same name, whom the officer wanted.

"Oh, that?" smiled the mother, pleasantly. "You mean that carpet there, don't you?"

The officer only frowned.

"Why, that," explained the woman, more smilingly than ever, "is just the way I piled the things up so I could sweep this side first. Yes, that's it." And she smiled again.

Then a startling thing happened. The carpet wiggled.

"Ha!" exclaimed the Deputy Sheriff, seizing the carpet. And again he cried, "Ha!" as he pulled the wanted Samuel out by the legs from beneath the pile.

"Why, it's Sammy!" remarked Mrs. Mable in gentle astonishment.

The youth, aged 18, was taken to the Four Courts, where he is being held, accused of robbing the saloon of Ben Tora, 205 Olive street, a month ago.

STRUCK BY TROLLEY CAR.
Man Walking on Track Receives Possibly Fatal Injury.

Charles Abegg, 48 years old, of 618 Bristol street, Belleville, is at St. Vincent's Hospital, Belleville, suffering from injuries received Monday evening, when he was struck by a Suburban car near Edgemoor. He has been unconscious ever since the accident and is not expected to recover.

Abegg had been fishing and was walking along the car track toward Edgemoor on a curve, where it was impossible for the trolleys to stop the car after seeing him. His skull was fractured and he received other injuries.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

State of Missouri,
City of St. Louis, ss.
Personally appeared before me, a Notary Public in and for the City of St. Louis, Mo., W. C. Steiglers, Business Manager of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who deposes and says that the regular editions of the St.
Louis Post-Dispatch for the entire year 1904, after deducting all copies returned by newspapers and copies left over, printed in printing and unaccounted for, averaged Daily 148,833, Sunday 225,837; and further that the sales of the Post-Dispatch in the City of St. Louis exceed by many thousands the number of homes in St. Louis.
W. C. STEIGLERS, Business Manager.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 19th day of May, 1906.
My term expires April 13, 1909.

Strange to say, it wasn't an American who paid $4592 for an adontoglossum crispum in London the other day.

The bridge combine, in Secretary Taft's opinion, violates every law except the letter of the Merchants' Bridge charter.

And it is an American woman who makes the British court wait while she arranges her red train. Is not this the summit of our greatness?

REMOVING THE BRIDGE ARBITRARY.

Secretary Taft coupled with his decision that there was no warrant for the Government's seizing the Merchants' Bridge for violation of its charter a statement that there is sufficient cause for action on the part of the Department of Justice, looking to civil and criminal proceedings for illegal restraint of interstate commerce.

The Secretary of War seems to have found that the common control of the two bridges was effected in such a way as to evade technically the charter's prohibition of a consolidation.
But he finds evidence of an agreement for the illegal restraint of interstate commerce which calls for an investigation by the Department of Justice.

Simultaneously with the publication of the Secretary's opinion came an announcement from Mr. Julius Walsh, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Terminal Railway Association, that the bridge arbitrary will be removed in the "very near future." This is welcome news and the fulfillment of the promise will remove the principal objection to the terminal combine. It is not to the use of common bridges and terminals by the 14 railroads, but to the abuse of the monopoly power by the common terminal company to oppress and restrain commerce that St. Louisans object. The bridge arbitrary is a toll levied solely because there is no competition in bridges and terminals.

It has been a matter of common report that the Terminal Railway Association was preparing to abolish the arbitrary.
Its action may have been hastened by the anticipated hint by Secretary Taft of action by the Department of Justice. The attention of President Roosevelt and of Attorney-General
Moody was called, previous to the announcement of Secretary Taft's decision, to the apparent violation of the anti-trust law, and the matter is now under consideration.

But regardless of action by the Federal authorities, the abolition of the bridge arbitrary will be a great benefit to St.
Louis and will mark the victorious culmination of a long and vigorous campaign, started and led by the Post-Dispatch. For years the Post-Dispatch has fought for the relief of St. Louis commerce from the oppression of the terminal combine. It brought to bear upon the combine the full force of publicity and of the irresistible logic of right and justice. It awakened the people of St. Louis to a realization of the necessity of abolishing the arbitrary and of concentrating the power of public opinion and popular organization upon that object.

When St. Louis is placed on the railroad map as the terminus of its railway traffic and is made a basing point for railroad rates, and when all the commerce of the city is relieved of the present discriminating bridge tolls, St. Louis business will take a great leap forward.

It is noticeable that Lady Warwick appears in labor process-

SAVAGE INVECTIVE.

"I hate to see a cold-blooded, right-living rascal, who has $40,000,000 and can teach Sunday school regularly and drive his hard bargains every day in the week, always keeping just within the range of the law. If I were asked what I thought of such a man, I would say he was lucky not to be in jail."

So said Rev. Dr. Patton of Princeton Theological Seminary in a sermon to students.

Now, who is the object of Dr. Patton's wrath? Who is the cold-blooded, right-living rascal and where is his Sunday school?

The murmur is rising. It is becoming a clamor. A few years ago President Hadley of Yale suggested social ostracism as a good defense against the raids of cold-blooded, right-living rascals worth $40,000,000. It begins to look as if the idea had taken root and was growing luxuriantly.

The bitterness of Dr. Patton's language has never been equaled. Only absolute certainty of his ground will justify investive so savage. But why is it delivered in the form of invenendo?

It seems that the Postoffice Department has a rod for divining-rod concerns.

A DEPARTMENT STORE HOSPITAL.

A great department store to be created in New York will have a hospital section, with a physician and trained nurses in attendance. This innovation is the outgrowth of experience.
Modern shopping is a strenuous pursuit. There are faintings of shoppers by the way. The bargain counter rush has its casualties as college football has. Besides which, accidents may and do happen anywhere.

Useful the hospital section certainly will be. It will mark also a further step in the remarkable expansion of department-store interests.

Beneath a single roof one may already clothe himself and furnish his house complete, arranging meanwhile for the regular delivery of supplies from groceries to upholstery. He may breakfast, lunch and dine without passing the doors. He may attend a concert or have a session with a dentist. He may write and post a letter, send a telegram and open a bank account. He may see a cat show or an automobile show or a world's exposition of the most costly new things in evening gowns.

It remains for time and the managerial imagination to reveal what extraordinary privileges of a shoppers' day shall follow those of a fully equipped emergency ward.

Contributions to the Pure Milk Fund have begun to come in.
And the hot weather makes the opening of this roll of honor timely. Plenty of money should be forthcoming, in order to prevent the increase of the death rate among the babies which must otherwise be inevitable. The condition of the poor family without pure milk or ice, and with one or more sick children, is terrible. Every contribution to the fund may save such a child from death. He who gives promptly gives thrice. The Post-Dispatch will receive and acknowledge all contributions to this fund.

SWIMMING BATHS WANTED.

The loss of six lives in one day by drowning emphasizes the need of public swimming baths.

The agitation for these municipal necessities was begun several years ago, but nothing has been accomplished. So far as anybody knows not even a beginning has been made.

It needs no argument to demonstrate the expediency of such baths. The open river is not a safe swimming place, but during the hot weather the temptation is too strong to resist, and a long list of lives lost is the result.

The baths need not cost much. For a sum comparatively trifling suitable inclosures can be erected along the levee in which boys and young men can enjoy themselves without danger of being carried away by the strong currents and drowned.

It is a public duty which should not be neglected. The city should not neglect provisions for the health and safety of the poorer citizens which are found in cities not so pretentious as St. Louis.

With an Ambassador in Paris grander than De Morny or De Rohan, we are surely a great power. American dollars will always count in France.

gencies of war have forced the Japanese army to eat some Chi-only three Europeans will be necessary in a fight with one little Japanese.

NEW YORK NEWSPAPER VIEWS

This Morning's Comments on Today's News by the Leading Metropolitan Journals.

By Leased Wire From the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The World says:
"New York hotels are reporting an extraordinary influx of foreign visitors. Something seems to have set in like the reign of a golden rule of travel. European tourists are doing to us as Europeans have long willed that our tourist should do to them. It is a happy condition which we should do our utmost to encourage into permanence."

A German statistician who estimated recently the amount of money spent by tourists in Europe presented some astounding figures. Switzerland, he declared, gathers in $30,000,000 a year from 3,000,000 visitors;
Italy, the Riviera and Spain receive $30,- 000,000 and the capitals receive $25,000,000.
Great sums pour into other quarters by lake, mountain and sea.

"American travelers furnish the lion's share of the contributions. We should be interested in a purely commercial way in any promising means of getting some of our good money back. But also we may be proud to realize that when it comes to a showing down of things to see—and room to see them in—we are prepared to strike a most favorable balance with the older powers."

The subway is an unfair competitor of New York's Turkish baths.—The Press.

The Times seems to be serious in discussing the reproof to Speaker Cannon at Portland administered by the wife of the President of the Portland Exposition on the speaker's stand the opening day. Unfortunately, Joe was very warm, so he emptied a pitcher of ice-water over his fevered brow and then fished with his fingers for the cracked ice in the glass. The observing wife afore said sent word to him that "the glass was not for promiscuous use."

The Sun relates the things and says: "The finale, as they say in the books of the tragedy or comedy or vaudeville, was when Speaker Cannon led President Goode's assistant to the rear of the stand and "said things, and it was only after many apologies that the Speaker consented to deliver his address."

"Without attempting to play the part of peacemaker at such a time, we still believe we are at liberty to add: What would Mr. Cannon have done if the offending glass had contained lemonade?"

Postmaster-General Cortelyou, by appointing a member of the Republican committee from Louisiana, has again directed attention to the scandal of a Cabinet officer acting as head of a partisan committee.—The World.

"For years it has been customary to be-well for some days after the Fourth of July—the discomfort, the confagration, the maimings and the deaths which are attendant upon our method of celebrating Independence Day, and to demand, with a fine show of returning reason and righteous indignation, that the repetition of such miseries shall be forbidden by law;
and then to do nothing practical about it or to ignore or defeat the efforts of those who do seek to abate the evil," says the Tribune. "We are eloquent over the iniquity of theft after the horse has been stolen. Nothing of real importance has been done. We are only a month from Independence Day, with every prospect of repeating and even increasing the record of last year."

"This is humiliating and disheartening.
Yet even now the possibility of relief, at least in this city, is not past, if only the police will do their duty."

Help wanted.—So many Equitable directors are quitting that it may be well for men out of town to keep their eyes glued to the "Help wanted—male" columns.—The Herald.

The Times pays a just tribute to Gen.
Henry V. Boynton, soldier and newspaper man, whose death has just occurred. It says in part: "A veteran of the Civil War on the Union side, he early recognized that the honors of the field of that great and decisive battle (Chickamauga) were not all on one side; that the Confederate troops fought with a skill and valor of which since they were Americans, every American may honorably be proud."

"The credit of this concept of a national park to commemorate a great battle, where the valor and military prowess of Americans were grandly displayed, belongs to Gen. Boynton. It was an idea worthy of a General, a soldier and a patriot. It is now proposed to erect, either in the Chick-amauga Park or Chattanooga, a monument which shall appropriately symbolize permanent peace founded upon mutual love and respect re-established between geo-graphical divisions once politically divided and at

AMERICAN WIVES ARE IN LUCK.

BY DOROTHY FENNIMORE.

"If my wife does not obey me, I shall give her the thumbs. You know what I mean. I shall beat her," calmly remarked the handsome young French Count who sat across from me at table on the steamer. "She will do what I want her to. Why? Because she is my wife." He concluded with conviction.

"In France," he went on to observe critically, "a man and his wife are one; they have one will, one way between them; but in your country a married couple are always two, except in the eyes of the law."

I could not help regretting that I was unable to introduce this lord of creation to one of those women of my own land who have secured divorce from their husbands, by our obliging laws, on the ground that they found marriage life too tame because they were permitted to have their own way in everything, says Dorothy Fennimore in the Chicago Journal.

It is natural, under the circumstances, that the French people should be secretly scandalized by the spectacle of the annual arrival in Paris of a horde of American wives, who have come abroad for the summer, unaccompanied by their husbands.

"Woman owes obedience to her husband," is a generally recognized principle which is based on article 213 of the French civil code. And according to the ideas of the country the proper place for a woman is in her own home, and her highest duty is to please in every way her husband, his family and his friends.

The Frenchwoman, however, feels less in bondage than does the American, who makes a distinct effort to maintain her independence after marriage. Nor is her case that of a captive bird, that is happy in a gilded cage. She is satisfied simply to be feminine, which means also that her sentimental side develops naturally, since sentiment is characteristically feminine. And if her husband is good to her she is very likely to be happy, and to regard obedience to his will as a pleasure, not a duty.

NO. 19.

Husband—Husbandman.

N EW women are hereby respectfully informed that the original meaning of husband, as a noun, is the head of a house or family. It is from the Anglo-Saxon hus, a house and bryda, head of a family—see Standard Dictionary.

But husband is synonymous with husbandman, a tiller of the soil, showing that the original husband was a farmer or gardener, as I believe.

We are told with the husband with Adam.

It was noted, incidentally, that among the nations
in which Adam's occupation is most popular, the New

Woman who aspires to be the husband or head of the house is almost unknown. The wife spins while the husband delves.

This interesting word husband is also a verb—to husband, that is, to use or administer with prudence or economy; to save for a future emergency; as, to husband one's resources; to husband one's strength.

The verb to husband is also synonymous with to till or to cultivate. In considering the word husband, we can't get away from the idea of scratching the soil for a livelihood, not for one's self, but for a family.

From this fact we are led to believe that the tiller of the soil was the original savor, exhibiting prudence and foresight. He first practiced and taught the saving virtue of thrift.

Husband, then, in its broadest sense, is the head of a house who utilizes the resources of nature and applies them with thrift for the good of the family.

One or two cases of phenomenal husbands come to mind. King Solomon, for instance, who had 700 wives and husbanded his resources so well that his riches became as the sands of the sea. And John D. Rockefeller, who, while having but one wife, has husbanded his own and other people's resources to such an extent that he could afford to support several thousand wives.

Neither of these, however, was a husband in the old sense of being a husbandman.
Had they been, they would surely have exercised moderation, as all true husband-men do.

A quaint use for the word husband is in connection with ships. A man who looks after a ship while she is in port, attends to her repairs and supplies her with provisions, is called the ship's husband.

It is evident that the lazy man has no valid right to be called a husband, even though he be married and supposedly as the head of a family.

Rockefeller's Substitute.

If I was Rockefeller's sub,
And had a whack at all his riches,
Which, though he massed them with a dub,
Is still a shren that bewitches,
The time I'd have would put to shame
Old King Caligula, who fed
His horse on gilded oats. No game
Of any kind of which I've read
By me would go untried. I'd give Marc Antony both cards and spades,
And teach him truly how to live;
And all ingenious men and maids
Who seek to know love's very essence,
Which is of human life the hub,
Would find in me its recondescence.
If I were Rockefeller's sub.

If I were Rockefeller's sub,
I'd seek a girl with flaming tresses,
The warmest member in the club,
An every knowing bard confesses.
A very Cleopatra, she;
Of all the sweet sorority
The one for whom a man would barter
His hope of peace and joy to place;
And with her turgid for guide,
I'd make the staid old city hum
Until it was transmogrified.
I'd frighten the Diogenes
Till every one would seek his tub,
And show 'em all what heart disease is,
If I were Rockefeller's sub.

Reflections of Alas P. Yorick.

I have observed that a green table in a summer garden is one of the loneliest spots in the world unless there is a girl on the other side of it.
When I observe the way some men hug their girls on street cars I wonder why the company does not charge them excursion rates.
The man who takes a drink out of a bottle in the dark has no kick coming if it turns out to be carbolic acid.
Why is it that two Huguenots who have reached an amiable agreement never leave the courtroom otherwise than arm in arm?
When I see a girl laugh at a suggestive joke in a theater I wonder what she would do if some man were to tell her the same thing at home.
Some men seem to think that fining a jockey for a thieving ride makes him honest straightway, and keeps on betting.
If I had as much faith in humanity as some men and women have in a dream book I would get $50,000 more of fun out of life every year.

You Know What.

Has anybody asked you yet
If it is hot
Enough for you?
In case he does, you'll not forget,
We hope, to do
Upon every spot,
What it is up to you to do.

Tempting a Bard.

How can even a temperance bard be expected to write a hot weather sarsaparilla poem, when there is neither meter to the word nor a rhyme for it, and when "two verses the red-combed old Bard of the Sierras has been turning out this year, there will be a hot time in the old town that night."
"There are no $100,000 salaries," writes Mr. John A. Howland. But that's no saying there won't be after we get our promised raise next Christmas.
We feared as much. A New Jersey bard has sprung a war poem rhyming "boat-les" with "hopeless."
Woman stole twenty porous plasters and the court clerk her for thirty days.

Cruel Fate.

They were seated so close together on the porch sofa that there was no room between them for an argument, when she suddenly let loose a large and soulful sigh.
"What's the matter, darling?" he asked.
"O," she replied, "I just happened to think that this would be our last evening together until tomorrow evening."

There are no less than four-teen remedies in this standard family medicine. Among them we might mention sarsaparilla root, yellow dock root, stillingia root, buck-thorn bark, senna leaves, burdock root, cimi-cifuga root, cinchona bark, phytolacca root.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla is certainly a medicine, a genuine medicine, a doctor's medicine.

WHERE THE DAY BEGINS.

For all ordinary purposes the day begins at sunrise, and actually day begins at the first second of time after midnight wherever you may happen to be. But this is not sufficiently exact for the purposes of navigation, since we know that when it is midnight at Philadelphia, for instance, it is nearly 11 o'clock in Portland, Me., and not much after 11 o'clock in Chicago, Ill. On the other hand, this makes very little difference in business affairs, except in the matter of telegrams.
To illustrate: The difference in time between Liverpool and New York is about five hours, so that a telegram sent from Liverpool at noon will arrive in New York shortly after 7 in the morning, not allowing for delays.
Usually the great boat races between Oxford and Cambridge are rowed about 4 p. m., and we hear the result at noon.
San Francisco is eight hours in sun time from England, and in consequence the California papers can publish at 6 a. m. news of happenings in England and the continent at 2 p. m. of the same day.
This is interesting, but puzzling, especially to navigators, and in order to prevent loss of reckoning it becomes necessary to fix on some particular spot where the astronomical or nautical day should begin.
According to the way in which this arrangement is now carried out, the first land that the new day dawns upon is Easter Island, about 230 miles west of the coast of Chile, South America. That is to say, July 3 breaks here within a few hours of the 1st, having broken on the American coast to the east, and the two days run on alongside—the 1st in Easter Island and places west, the 1st in all places on the American Continent.
We may, therefore, realize this idea—that at 7:30 o'clock any morning in Great Britain, or at noon in Philadelphia, the next day is commencing in the world, and is to be found at this little island in the Pacific Ocean, whence in due course it will travel 'round to us.
But to have thus the start of the world is not an unmitigated advantage to these islanders. Suppose one of them sails east to America, what is the result? He will find that they keep the day there under a different date, and he will have to reckon one day in his calendar twice over to put himself right with their notions.
On the other hand, if an American crosses from east to west this wonderful magic line where the day begins he will find the dates in this fresh part of the world are one in advance of him, and he must strike a day out of his calendar to keep up with the times.
This fact was curiously illustrated in the case of Magellan, the Portuguese captain, who sailed around the world from east to west in 1522, and, having crossed the magic line of "day's birth" in his wanderings, his calendar became, of course, a day in the rear. The sailors were completely ignorant of this, and, finding on landing at home that their Sabbath was falling on Monday, they accused one another of tampering with the reckoning.
It was for some time that the true and simple explanation of the wonderful loss of time was discovered.

A Give-Away.

"There's only one good thing about that young puppy that came to see you last night," said the irascible father, "and that is he's healthy."
"I'm surprised to hear you admit that much," replied the dutiful daughter.
"I wouldn't, except for the fact that when you met him in the hall last night I heard you say, 'O, George, how cold your nose is!'"

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!
We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Dr. H. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."
Dr. C. C. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."
Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merit."
Dr. Norman M. Geer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the ease with which such a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."
Dr. F. H. Kyle, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "It affords me pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have used and now endorse your Castoria. The fact of the ingredients being known through the printing of the formula on the wrapper is one good and sufficient reason for the recommendation of any physician. I know of its good qualities and recommend it cheerfully."

CLOSE GAMES IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Twenty Holes Necessary to Decide Howard-Pollack Match—Stickney Defeats Collins.

Pairings for Tuesday's Play in Golf Tourney. George F. Powell vs. Ralph McKittick.

The second round at match play and the first round for the consolation cup in the golf tournament of the city championship is now in progress on the links of the St. Louis Country Club.

Close matches were the result in the first round. Five of the matches concluded with scores of one up, while in two contests extra holes were required to decide the winners.

The Arthur Stickney-Tom Collins match proved the greatest attraction and almost resulted in a great surprise. At the end of the regular play over 18 holes, the scores were even and the extra hole was necessary before Stickney won.

Stickney has been in ill health, which probably accounts for his poor showing. Collins, while not usually rated in Stickney's class, played a surprisingly good game.

Twenty holes were necessary to decide the Howard-Pollack match, the former finally winning. Jesse Carleton was in good form and won from E. W. Lansing. Clay Pierce defeated P. E. Newberry, one up, and Powell won from Fisher, 5 up and 4 to play.

George S. McGrew forfeited to Duncan Joy and C. C. O'Connor defaulted to Ralph McKittick. Deland also defaulted to Gardner. The summary: Powell defeated Fisher, 5 up 4.

HOT OFF THE BAT.

The Browns begin their long Eastern trip at Boston Tuesday. They play the Champions a series of four games. Manager McAleer's charges will not return until June 15, and by that time we will be able to get a line on their chances in the long race.

Thielman wishes to deny the report that he is from the Pacific Coast. He says he is from St. Cloud, Minn. He also declares that his name is not Jack, but Jack. All this to become better acquainted with our sensational pitcher.

The Cardinals have signed Arnold, a deaf and dumb pitcher. He has been twirling sensational ball among the Illinois semi-professional clubs and will be given a try-out Tuesday.

Stanley Robinson says anent the report sent from the East that he had signed Keenan: "I never heard of the lad. The story is a canard pure and simple."

What charming scenes will be enacted on the ball fields in case the courts decide that President Pulliam has no power to fine and suspend players for rowdiness.

Little Ex-Champion Has Deserted the Stage and Is Now Assistant Starter at Racetrack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. HAMILTON, Ont., June 6.—Terry McGovern, ex-featherweight champion, has forsaken the prize ring and the footlights, and is now trying his hand as assistant starter at the racetrack of the Hamilton Jockey Club.

William Murray, who started the races at the Ontario Jockey Club at Toronto, met Terry in the King Edward Hotel at that place one evening and offered him the position of assistant starter, which Terry promptly accepted.

At the opening day of the meeting Terry appeared at the track bright and ready with a bunch of ill-luck in his hand, ready to assist in starting the races. When the horses are at the post Terry appears, and he is of great assistance to the starter for the jockeys' knowledge of the field will stand no trifling and as a consequence there are very few delays at the post.

"American League Will Have Its Greatest Year in 1905"

—PRESIDENT JOHNSON.

Did you notice a tall, powerfully built, smooth-shaven man sitting in the topmost row of the long tier of seats at League Park Monday afternoon? He wore a black derby hat, a modest gray business suit and continuously carried a big, black cigar in his mouth, which for some reason or other he refused to ignite.

If you did not take cognizance of this gentleman you will be apt to regret it, for it was Ban B. Johnson, President of the American League, member of the National Commission and unquestionably one of the foremost figures in the national game.

"What is the object of your visit to St. Louis?" he was asked by the Post-Dispatch. "The 'great mogul,' as he is colloquially called, laughed. 'Why, I just came down from Chicago to consummate arrangements for a fishing and outing trip I am going on with a few friends. There is too much of the sportsman in my veins to confine myself in my office these ideal days when the beauties of nature make one restless, and I must have a good old tramp through the woods now and then.'

Then Mr. Johnson chuckled to himself as if in delight at the fun they were all going to have. He didn't look at that minute like the man who organized and carried through by sheer force of will the only organization in professional ball that has successfully combated the National League.

"Suppose the courts should decide that President Pulliam of the National League has power to assess and fine Manager McGraw for the Dreyfuss episode, what would be the effect of the judicial action on the players of the league?" "That action is something that seems to me to be impossible. The League has their own organizations and their own rules, and all court decisions heretofore have substantiated our every action. I do not think the result of the McGraw hearing will have any other result.

"It is a matter of comment among many of the fans, Mr. Johnson, that the American has been singularly free this year from controversies on the field. Can you account for it?" "No, I can not nor would it be my province to do so. But this I will say. There will be no fights or rowdiness in the American this year or any season that I am in charge. I will have clean baseball and woe betide the transgressor who can not abide by the laws of the American."

"What do you think of the race in the American?" "Great. The showing of the Detroit and Cleveland clubs has been the surprise of the year. And then I have a particularly good one in my heart for your own St. Louis club. Did you ever see a pitcher out that the youngsters you have developed who have been almost the only good ones in the American that have come out of the minors?"

"The status of the recruits have been Frisk and Van Zant of the Browns and Chase and Hogg of the Highlanders. That is about all of the Immense number that joined our League early in the campaign."

"Well, the best I know is that we are going to have the greatest year in its history, and even right now some of the magnates have aggregated receipts that will pay salaries for the coming year."

Dolan Pays Fine.

CINCINNATI, June 5.—"Cory" Dolan, the ballplayer, who was released by the Cincinnati club and who was arrested for an assault on a Cincinnati sporting writer, appeared in court this morning and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined the cost, which he paid. He has been claimed by the Boston Braves and ordered to that city by the National Commission. Boston will get Catcher Street also.

BLOOD POISON MAN'S GREATEST ENEMY

The disease that has done more than any other to wreck, ruin and humiliate life is Contagious Blood Poison. Sorrow, shame and suffering go hand in hand with this great enemy, and man has always hated and fought it as he has no other disease. It is the most powerful of all poisons; no matter how pure the blood may be, when its virus enters, the entire circulation becomes poisoned and its chain of horrible symptoms begin to show. Usually the first sign is a small sore or ulcer, not at all alarming in appearance, but the blood is being saturated with the deadly poison, and soon the mouth and throat begin to ulcerate, the hair and eyebrows drop out, a red eruption breaks out on the body, copper-colored spots and sores make their appearance and the poison even works down into the bones and attacks the nerves. Not only is the disease hereditary, being transmitted from parent to child, in the form of scrofula, weak eyes, soft bones, weak, puny constitutions, etc., but is also so highly contagious that many a life has been ruined by a friendly hand shake, or by using the toilet articles of one infected with the poison. To cure this using the toilet articles of one infected with the poison. To cure this using the toilet articles of one infected with the poison. Witnesses Fail to Appear; Fined.
Little Maria of 128 South Broadway, and Mrs. Schmidt of 806 Rutger street, were each fined $1.25 by Judge Tracy in the City Hall Police Court Tuesday because they failed to appear as witnesses in the case of William Craig of 215 Rutger street, charged with disturbing the peace of his wife, Emma. They gave the excuse that Mrs. Craig told them not to appear. Mrs. Craig was not on hand and the case was continued and an attachment issued for her.

Carr and Delmont Draw

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BROCKTON, Mass., June 6.—Eddie Carr of Charleston and Al Delmont of Medford fought 10 rounds to a draw at the Young Men's Athletic Club last night. The bout was one of the fastest this year. Delmont carried the fighting most of the way, but was met by a clean guard and hot body punches from Carr. Carr was clever in returning the fighting in the mixups and up to the last round and slightly the better of the bout in landing effective blows.

Young Haynes Victor Over Tuse

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Young Tuse of Chicago put up a good contest for three rounds against Young Haynes of Germantown at the Twentyfourth Athletic Club, but after that he tired and Haynes had no trouble in securing the popular verdict. The fight was a very close one, but those who came out were well repaid for their trouble, as every bout was of the hurricane order and productive of some good fighting.

Women Deny Stealing Watch

The police would like very much to have the man who claims to have been robbed of a watch Monday night by two negroes call at the Dayton Street Police Station and see if he can identify Laura Shaw and George Scott, who are locked up there. Paul Knight of 1033 Morrison avenue, a special delivery messenger at the Postoffice, was riding east Seventeenth and Chestnut streets at 9:45 p. m. on his way home when he was hailed by a white man and pointed to two negroes and said they had robbed him of his watch. Knight followed them. At Twenty-second street and 13th avenue he met Policemen Kuehner, Cahen and Tolson. They arrested him and Laura Shaw and George Scott in a car at the rear of 610 North Twenty-first street. No watch was found. The two men say they are innocent. Live at 215 Market street.

CLOSE GAMES IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Twenty Holes Necessary to Decide Howard-Pollack Match—Stickney Defeats Collins.

Pairings for Tuesday's Play in Golf Tourney.
George F. Powell vs. Ralph McKittick.
Wallace Delafield vs. Stewart Stickney.
J. T. Watson vs. J. H. Swartz.
J. H. Brockmeyer vs. W. A. Stickney.
H. Potter vs. J. J. Howard.
Duncan Joy vs. Jesse Carleton.
Clay Pierce vs. J. C. Van Riper.
J. O. Ballard vs. J. J. Howard.

The second round at match play and the first round for the consolation cup in the golf tournament for the city championship now in progress on the links of the St. Louis Country Club will be played Tuesday afternoon. All players defeated in the first round played yesterday will be paired to play off for the consolation prize.

Close matches were the result in the first round. Five of the matches concluded with scores of one up, while in two contests extra holes were required to decide the winners.

The Arthur Stickney-Tom Collins match proved the greatest attraction and almost resulted in a great surprise. At the end of the regular play over 18 holes, the scores were even and the extra hole was necessary before Stickney won.

Stickney has been in ill health, which probably accounts for his poor showing. Collins, while not usually rated in Stickney's class, played a surprisingly good game.

Twenty holes were necessary to decide the Howard-Pollack match, the former finally winning. Jesse Carleton was in good form and won from E. W. Lansing. Clay Pierce defeated F. E. Newberry, one up, and Powell won from Fisher, 5 up and 4 to play.

George S. McGrew forfeited to Duncan Joy and C. C. O'Connor defaulted to Ralph McKittick. Delafield also defaulted to Gardner. The summary:
Stickney defeated Collins, 5 up 4.
Ralph McKittick won from Connor by default.
Delafield won from Gardner by default.
Stewart Stickney defeated T. H. Collins, 1 up, 19 holes.
Watson defeated Darter, 1 up.
Svartz defeated Mandy, 3 up 2.
Brockmeyer defeated Carter, 3 up 4.
Ballard defeated J. P. Kamey, 5 up 4.
F. Howard defeated Edmunds, 7 up 5.
J. Howard defeated Moore, 5 up 3.
Joy won from McGrew by default.
J. Carleton defeated Lansing, 6 up 4.
Pierce defeated Newberry, 1 up.
Van Riper defeated Carter, 3 up 4.
Ballard defeated J. P. Kamey, 5 up 4.
The pairings for the consolation cup today is as follows: Carter vs. Mandy, McGrew vs. Fisher, Pollock vs. A. H. Annan, Moore vs. Gardner, Vickery vs. Newberry, Lansing vs. Darter and Kamey vs. Connor.

HOT OFF THE BAT.

The Browns begin their long Eastern trip at Boston Tuesday. They play the Champions a series of four games. Manager McAleer's charges will not return until June 2, and by that time we will be able to get a line on their chances in the long race.

Thielman wishes to deny the report that he is from the Pacific Coast. He says he is from St. Cloud, Minn. He also declares that his name is not Jack, but Jack. All this to become better acquainted with our sensational pitcher.

The Cardinals have signed Arnold, a deaf and dumb pitcher. He has been twirling sensational ball among the Illinois semi-professional clubs and will be given a try-out Tuesday.

Stanley Robinson says anent the report sent from the East that he had signed Keenan: "I never heard of the lad. The story is a canard pure and simple."

What charming scenes will be enacted on the ball fields in case the courts decide that President Pulliam has no power to fine and suspend players for rowdiness.

Arthur Ames of the New York Nationals has far to go.

TERRY MCGOVERN IN ANOTHER ROLE

Little Ex-Champion Has Deserted the Stage and Is Now Assistant Starter at Racetrack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HAMILTON, Ont., June 6.—Terry McGovern, ex-featherweight champion, has forsaken the prize ring and the footlights, and is now trying his hand as an assistant starter at the racetrack of the Hamilton Jockey Club. Terry has brought his brother to Toronto, where he had hoped to secure the lad some good mounts. Failing in that he has sent the youngster home.

William Murray, who started the races at the Ontario Jockey Club at Toronto, met Terry in the King Edward Hotel at that place one evening and offered him the position of assistant starter, which Terry promptly accepted. Last Saturday, the closing day of the Toronto meeting, was Terry's first experience in this line, and after the races started Murray expressed himself as being well satisfied with the little fellow's work.

At the opening day of the meeting Terry appeared at the track bright and early with a bunch of illies in his hand, ready to assist in starting the races. When the horses are at the post Terry appears, whip in hand, and handles the horses like a veteran. He is great assistance to the starter, for the jockeys know that Terry will stand no trifling and as a consequence there are very few delays at the post.

CHAT OF THE DIAMOND

In announcing Callahan's suspension President Comiskey said: "I have stood more from Callahan than from any other player I ever had, out of consideration for his family, and he has shown the least appreciation of it. This spring he promised faithfully to keep himself in condition. You see how long it lasted. I told him, when he signed his contract that if he broke it he could never play baseball again on my grounds, and he never will."

President Dreyfuss of the Pirates scouts the idea of a feud between the Reds and his team. They get along better than any two teams in the league," says he.

Stovall will be used regularly at first base repeater by Cleveland while Carr, in the early spring, a wonder, decorates the bench. Stovall was mentioned as a Red possibility last week.

Clancy continues to put up a good game at the bat and on first for the Pirates. As he has been doing this since the season opened, a month and a half ago, he may be regarded as a fixture in the big league.

Jesse Tannehill has been troubled with cramps the greater part of the season and has not been able to serve the Boston Champions at the slab regularly. Dineen has been doing the bulk of the team's pitching.

"What do you think of the race in the American?"

"Great. The showing of the Detroit and Cleveland clubs has been the surprise of the year. And then I have a particularly soft spot in my heart for our own St. Louis club. BILLIARDS BUSY IN PARIS, SAYS DALY

NEW YORK, June 6.—Fresh from viewing the billiard play of the foremost Parisian professionals and amateurs, Maurice Daly has returned to his academy. The dean of professional billiardists in this country, as Daly is often called, said that the sport was more active than ever in the French capital, and for that matter all over the continent of Europe, while in England there have been an endless array of professional matches. Stevenson, Dawson and John Roberts playing games of the English variety of as many as 20,000 points.

Paris was still the center of the game with the cue and ivory balls, and it was in the academies and cafes that Daly saw the best of the sport. He says that Maurice Vignaux is in ill health, and it is certain that he will never again be seen in this country. Vignaux is not playing with any great show of skill, although he takes part in the regular short games upon which people bet in the Grand Cafe and the Passage des Panoramas.

George Sutton, the American, is with Vignaux, and from the work that he accomplished with his cue when Daly saw him play, it is the opinion of the latter that he is to be reckoned with for the American championship, if not as champion of the world, whenever he wishes to return to this country or to break with Vignaux and challenge him for the title.

He is now here, and he is the opinion of the latter that he is to be reckoned with for the American championship, if not as champion of the world, whenever he wishes to return to this country or to break with Vignaux and challenge him for the title.

It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, drives out every particle of the poison and makes the blood clean and strong.
